Believe Jap Armada Was Making Effort To Cut Supply Line

By JOSEPH A. BORS
International News Service
Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Military and naval experts in Washington today expressed the belief that the Japanese armada which has been "repulsed" after more than five days pounding by United Nations naval units was en route to the Fiji Islands area in an attempt to cut the American-Australian supply route.

These sources assert that the Japanese hoped to isolate American and United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific from further reinforcements and supplies needed for the expected offensive against the Japanese.

This contention was supported by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique from Australia reporting that the great naval and air battle had "temporarily ceased." MacArthur stated that the enemy fleet invasion "represents the continued effort of the Japanese to extend their aggressive conquests toward the south and southeast."

Must Dominate Islands
Japan's entire Pacific war plans hinge upon domination of island reinforcements and supplies needed for the expected offensive against the Japanese.

"Our naval forces then attacked in an interception.

"They were handled with marked skill, with admiral courage and tenacity and the enemy has been repulsed.

Air Power Enabled United Nations To Crush Jap Fleet

(U. N. Staff Correspondent)
UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, May 9.—Air power, the vital complement of modern war, was credited today with enabling the United Nations forces to crush the Japanese fleet in the battle of the Coral Sea.

The fierce five-day naval engagement also answered one of the paramount questions of the war—that of the fighting ability of the Democratic nations—and showed that given the proper equipment, United Nations forces, man for man, can readily outfight the Japs.

In the battle somewhere off Australia the United Nations ships for the first time in any engagement in the Pacific were backed up by adequate air support. In this respect they met the Japanese on an equal footing and stood ready to make their mark.

Battle Near Australia Is Temporarily Halted By United Nations Victory

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. N. Staff Correspondent)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, In Australia, May 9.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today that United Nations naval and air forces had scored a tremendous victory over the Japanese fleet in the Coral Sea, forcing the battered enemy, with at least 11 of its ships sunk and six others severely damaged to retire to their bases north of Australia.

The general declared that United Nations losses were comparatively light and branded exorbitant Japanese claims as "false" and "fantastic."

He disclosed that the great naval engagement which had raged for more than five days had "temporarily ceased" after United Nations warships and bombing planes, chiefly American, had repulsed the huge enemy fleet, apparently bent on an invasion mission.

May Not Need To Occupy Martinique

Daily Patrol Is Being Made

Close Watch Being Maintained Over French Possessions In Caribbean

AIRCRAFT CARRIER AND PLANES THERE

By KINGSBURY SMITH
WASHINGTON, May 9.—There is understood to be some hope in authoritative quarters in Washington today that it may be possible for the United States to avoid the necessity of occupying Martinique and the other French possessions in the Caribbean.

The American government's chief concern over Martinique at the present time is believed to be the presence there of the French aircraft carrier Bearn and the light cruiser Emile Bertin.

In a lesser degree, concern also is felt over the fairly large number of American-made planes which were brought to Martinique aboard the Bearn after the fall of France.

Keep Close Watch
Only a few of the planes are believed to be in flying condition, but the warships still are able to fire their guns and operate should they receive, and carry out, orders to do so.

This situation has necessitated a close watch over Martinique and nearby Guadeloupe by an American naval patrol. Arrangements for this patrol to operate in Martinique and Guadeloupe waters were made last year in an agreement with Admiral Georges Robert, high commissioner of the French possessions in this hemisphere.

Since that time, the navy has been maintaining a daily patrol of the waters of Martinique and Guadeloupe. This patrol has been increased whenever relations between the United States and Vichy France have reached a particularly acute stage.

Necessity for maintaining this patrol has been somewhat of a drain on the American navy at a time when its warships might be more usefully employed elsewhere.

Therefore, of some arrangement could be made to immobilize the striking power of the French warships and planes in Martinique, the need might never arise for action to take over the island.

Immobilization of those ships and planes might be accomplished by dismantling the armament of the vessels and removing the engines of the planes.

las, have dislodged the Germans from strategic, highly-fortified positions in the Karelian and Leningrad sectors and the Russian Air Force has carried out heavy raids against Nazi positions in Norway and Finland during an aerial battle still in progress, it was learned.

Guerrillas figured heavily in the Leningrad action, dislodging the Germans from several fortified villages following a ten-hour battle which brought death to 420 Nazi soldiers.

Additional Successes
Additional successes in the Leningrad sector were reported by the supplement to an official communication which said Soviet units in two days of fighting had killed 401 Germans, with a single reconnaissance group accounting for more than 350 of the enemy.

Guerrillas also were active in the Kalinin area, killing a hundred Germans in one operation, the supplement said.

A German attack on the western front was repelled by artillery and mortar fire and at least 100 enemy soldiers were killed, the report declared.

Charges Nazis Use Gas

The Soviet news agency in Moscow charged German forces in the Crimean sector with using several mines containing poison gas during operations Tuesday. No details of the operation were disclosed.

Red army air force fighters and anti-aircraft batteries destroyed 36 German planes Thursday, according to a communication which said nothing of major importance occurred on the front yesterday. Sixteen Russian planes were lost, it was admitted.

The aerial engagements in the northwest have followed the arrival in Norway and Finland of large reinforcements for the Luftwaffe, reports said.

Police yesterday received a report that Thursday night some springs had been stolen from the Castleton junk yard. Cruiser Policeman Howard E. Richards and Radio Technician Wayne Sines searched for the truck, filled with auto springs. They found it this morning at Borough Line and Smithfield street. Two young boys who allegedly drove the truck and who were fixing a tire when the officers found them, were taken into custody to await action by the junk yard operators, police announced.

dive-bombing planes, were blasted under the waves or sent fleeing back to their bases.

Without air power the United Nations naval units never would have dared to intercept the Jap fleet and face the extreme danger of air attack from the enemy bases in islands above the commonwealth. With it they were able to steam into battle and come away with an overwhelming victory.

Roaring American flying fortresses and medium bombers, paving the way for the United Nations naval forces, swept overhead and dropped their deadly bomb loads on the surprised Japanese fleet as the American ships and other United Nations craft moved in for the kill.

United Nations sea power and air power asserted their strength swiftly and thoroughly.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced in his communication that the battle has "temporarily ceased." That may mean that the Japs will be forced to retreat completely and thoroughly overhaul their forces for another attempted thrust to the south, or it may mean that they will be forced to drop their plans for any further southward movement entirely.

Whatever the Jap strategy—whether they will abandon moves in the Australian theater until the Burma and India campaigns are cleaned up or attempt an immediate comeback—the sudden retreat of the enemy fleet caused Australians to breathe easier.

The successful dramatic action taken by the United Nations naval and air units bolstered the national confidence in the commonwealth that the Americans and their own forces would be able to stave off any Jap invasion.

bases straddling the sea routes, naval experts pointed out, Nippon's fortified Caroline, Marianas and Marshall Islands were used to great advantage by the enemy in preventing the United States from sending reinforcements to the Philippines.

In its invasion march toward Australia, Japan has carefully taken one island stepping stone after another to insure properly spaced bases for bombing and pursuit planes.

The latest navy communique issued in Washington said that a Japanese aircraft carrier, a heavy cruiser, a light cruiser, a seaplane tender and two transports had been sunk. It also stated that damage had been done to an enemy aircraft carrier, a heavy and light cruiser, a seaplane tender and two transport or cargo vessels.

Military and naval experts emphasize that only constant counter-blow by American and United Nations bombers have prevented the Japanese from consolidating gains on the strategic islands of New Guinea and New Britain, north of Australia.

Move Steadily

Despite heavy previous losses in ships and aircraft, the Japanese, nevertheless, have been moving steadily eastward into the Solomons, northwest of the French island of New Caledonia, now being guarded by an American expeditionary force.

New Caledonia is 800 miles off the eastern coast of Australia and forms the southern tip of the supply route to the United States. Japanese domination of the Fiji Islands approximately 900 miles northeast of this Free French island would be a serious threat to the A.E.F.

From the Fiji, the Japanese could harass shipping and strike at New Caledonia on one side and American Samoa on the other, while forces on New Guinea and Britain could peek away at the northern coast of Australia to weaken defenses.

War experts contend, therefore, that the final outcome of the great battle in the Coral sea may determine whether Japan pushes on or settles down to consolidate and fortify against counter-attack bases she now holds.

having participated in the Spanish dairy store robbery, Steubenville, May 7, which was reportedly looted of $80. Spinden told officers he met Celani in Canton last night and had not been in Steubenville Thursday night.

Message Asks Apprehension

According to Police Chief McMullen a teletype message was received Friday from Steubenville telling of the hold-up and asked that a search be made for the men believed to be traveling in a Buick sedan carrying license, New York 9K5042.

When the early morning officers reported at midnight last night for duty Desk Sergeant Grover C. Sylling read the request and all officers watched for the car.

While Thom, on, and Herman Richards were cruising on the public square early this morning they noticed a Buick parked in front of the Fountain Inn hotel. They notified headquarters.

Lieutenant Jones and Hanna joined the cruiser police and learned two men, signed as John Celani and Rudy Spinden had registered at the hotel from New York City and were in room 12.

The officers knocked on the door, demanded an entrance and Spinden opened the door. Celani was in bed. They ordered him to raise his hands. He did. The officers then searched the bed.

They discovered two revolvers, a loaded 22 automatic and 4 1/2 boxes of 22 bullets and also a loaded 38 calibre old style American bulldog revolver. In addition, they found in the auto handkerchiefs folded in mask fashion, police say.

The men had only $2.77, the money being in Celani's clothing.

Chief of Police McMullen said a suit of clothing, overcoat and sweater were found in the auto and that Celani had documents showing the ownership of the car registered to Celani's mother, 215 West 33rd street, New York City.

lights low, hoping to hide the port and aircraft factory under the glare. The British pilots, however, went in at low altitudes, lower than the lights.

Numerous runs were made at heights between 400 and 800 feet, in addition to high-level bombing. It was said.

Great fires were left raging at Warnemunde, the air ministry stated.

Aimed At Heinkel Plant

It was assumed in authoritative circles that the new assault against off-bombed Rostock was aimed at the Heinkel airplane works, the Neptune shipyards and other industrial objectives of the vital Baltic commercial port.

Targets in Warnemunde, seven miles north of Rostock on the tip of a Baltic inlet, included docks, a U-boat training base site and a vital aircraft factory, it was learned. Warnemunde is the terminus of an important ferry line to Denmark and also has been used by the Germans as a base for conveying troops and supplies to Norway.

The German news agency DNB confirmed the attacks on Rostock and Warnemunde, declaring the R. A. F. had inflicted "terrors" on the two cities. Material damage to "non-military" objectives and some civilian casualties resulted, DNB said, and added 12 of the attacking planes were shot down.

Germans Bomb British Town

Meanwhile, the Luftwaffe bombed an east Anglian town, identified in Berlin as Norwich, and the air ministry said some civilians were killed and some damage inflicted. Two German Messerschmitt planes were shot down off England's southwest coast, however, and at least one of six Messerschmitts attacking the British trawler H. M. S. Horatio was destroyed.

In the Horatio attack, another of the Messerschmitt planes was badly damaged by anti-aircraft fire and was losing altitude rapidly when last sighted. The rest of the German attackers soon gave up the battle with the trawler, it was said.

Pittsburgh Flyer Cited

Two individual exploits of R. A. F. fighters last night were disclosed today, one of them involving an American, Pilot J. A. Lumley, formerly a commercial pilot at Pittsburgh, Pa. Lumley piloted a Boston bomber which swooped down on a Norwegian fjord near Ahusund and unloaded its bombs on the deck of a large ship lying at anchor.

Big explosions occurred amidships and the vessel was burning fiercely as Lumley turned his plane homeward. The Boston was raked with anti-aircraft fire several times, but none of the crew was injured.

The pilot of a British Hurricane fighter plane destroyed a Heinkel-111 bomber and damaged a German Dornier in an aerial battle over the Netherlands coast during the night.

The Parent Problem

By Gary C. Myers, Ph. D.

SLACKS NOT A MORAL ISSUE

The great controversy over whether women and girls should or should not wear slacks does not seem to me to be a moral one. Since there is nothing either exhibitionistic or immodest in these outfits the issue seems merely to be one of expediency.

Personally I believe that slacks are here to stay and I think they are excellent when worn on the right occasion. The girl who works on a farm in a war industry, classroom, laboratory or assembly hall can move about more freely and gracefully in slacks. The same costume is both more appropriate and comfortable for most outdoor activities.

Some old men, a few middle-aged ones and even some young men are violent in their criticism of "women wearing pants." They are used to the femininity of skirts and feel that women are usurping a masculine privilege. This may be, subconsciously, their chief objection because due to the physical freedom this apparel affords, some girls can compete, even excel, in certain active games of skill which men have always supposed were beyond feminine mastery.

These gentlemen shouldn't worry, however, over a mere change of clothing making women masculine. Feminine intuition tells most women that slacks are not very flattering. They realize that the female figure in masculine or near-masculine attire doesn't inspire male consciousness with a desire to be either romantic or protective. So they don their pretties frocks when they wish to appeal to the opposite sex, and gain added appeal by the sudden contrast of costume.

Solving Parent Problems
Q. "My baby is five months old. When should I try to get him to take milk from a cup?"
A. Try him a bit now. Go at it very tenderly, avoiding his resistance. Try him from time to time later on, then he might be the more ready for weaning at the age of eight or nine months.

Q. What do you advise for whims in the tot—wanting to sit only in a certain chair, having bread broken just so, or being served by a certain person only?

A. Quit catering to his whims. Let him sit in the chair available or stand, eat the bread offered or none, accept the food or drink from whoever gives it, or go without.

Q. "Can a child read too much?"
A. Assuming that the books he reads are wholesome and he gets ample sleep, ample outdoor recreation with many others of his age, that he has good light and does not over-tax his eyes, be happy that your child is a great reader.

Q. Do you have any special helps on sleep problems of a child four or five?

A. Yes; write me for these enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp.

One Man's Opinion

Flash—"This is war" is being jerked from the air waves.

Flash—You can't sell a grade A war with a grade B program.

Flash—We told you so on March 25.

Flash—So what?

"This is War" was a shrill shriek, shaky offering of the office of facts and figures.

It was more figment than fact or figure.

It had the same sort of long-haul writing for which the federal theater was noted and its demise will leave about the same small cluster of professional mourners.

There are more ways to interest people in the war than by beating them over the head or stuffing them with mush and "This is War" tried both.

Try feeding synthetic drama to the Rochester man who has lost three sons in the navy—or any mother whose son is out there on the firing line. See how they like it.

MOURNING DOVES

She does not like the mourning dove.

With such a sorry note it coos.

Her chamber window just above.

As if 'twere spreading evil news.

Croo! Croo! This feathered creature gray.

At early dawn begins to sigh.

Greeting in such a solemn way.

The glory of the eastern sky.

And oft I wonder can it be

That mourning doves are doomed to grieve

For all the sorry sights they see.

And all the wrong that men achieve.

Down through the ages doves have been

Symbols of gentleness and peace;

Yet thus they wait at dawn and even

As if men's wars would never cease.

A clergyman who was passing a freight station was shocked to hear a string of abuse coming from the other side of a cattle car.

On investigating he saw two workers endeavoring to force a mule inside the car. The mule, however, was determined not to enter without a struggle.

"Ah, my good fellows," said the clergyman, "I see you are having a hard task. Can I be of assistance?"

"Yes," said one of the men, wiping his perspiring brow. "Being a preacher, maybe you can tell us how Noah managed to get two of these consarned mules into the Ark?"

Federal Agencies Keep On Multiplying
Hope To Continue On A Permanent Basis
Will Battle To Hold Jobs After War Ends

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Senator Robert A. Taft, in asserting that "hardly an agency (meaning Uncle Sam's wartime emergency agencies) is being set up which doesn't hope to continue its activities into the post-war period," may have mis-expressed himself slightly.

Such agencies, newly created or in process of creation, are doing their hoping right now, according to the Ohio solon.

I have my doubts that they're as far-seeing as that.

They're being established, supposedly, on a temporary basis. That's what their personnel are told when they're given their various send-offs. I think they begin work genuinely on that theory. If the occasion for 'em should evaporate quite speedily, I surmise that they'd disintegrate rather unresistingly.

Give them tenures of two or three years apiece, though, until they've had time to regard themselves as regular, permanent government bureaus, then tell 'em that the proper juncture's arrived for them to be abolished—and watch 'em fight for their lives, tooth and toenail.

Furthermore, they'll be sufficiently dug in to hang on everlastingly. Here and there an agency's name and alphabetical classification may be changed a bit, but it'll be the same old agency—or same young agency.

On Into Eternity

If Senator Taft had put it that an agency of today will last on into eternity, no matter how temporary its origin may have been, he'd have had plenty of precedent to cite in support of his contention.

Young folk of post-World War No. 1 generation, glancing around Washington and seeing themselves surrounded to the verge of suffocation with federal commissions and things of every sort and description, fancy that it's a condition dating back to our first president's era.

It does no such thing.

It dates back in instalments, to a succession of past durations.

Washington's agencies classify, in the Congressional Directory, as "independent offices." I don't know how many the presidential folder of his Country was blessed with because I can't find a Directory as old as that. The issue of 1908 is the earliest copy I'm able to lay my hands on.

In that there are 15 of 'em.

Initially they were temporaries, unquestionably, created by exigencies of the 1812 Mexican, Session and Spanish-American wars, and some of them, perhaps by the 1872 economic emergency. Anyway, they never were abolished. They're better entrenched now than some of our younger cabinet departments.

Well, there was a perfect epidemic of executive office creations during the 1914-18 war period. As

LONDON—Prime Minister Winston Churchill intimates a second front can be expected: "The time approaches when our accumulated strength will be matched against our enemies."

WASHINGTON—Lieut. Gen. Breton B. Somervell, chief of the army service of supply, asks state governors to relax local laws hampering movement of vital products. "If we are going to beat Hitler we have to do it now and in the process of beating him a few state regulations have to be stretched—why, I say, stretch hell out of them."

LONDON—Edward Benes, president of Czechoslovak government in exile, wants allied troops to march into Berlin: "If we do not succeed in causing Germany to pass through an internal revolution which will purify the German people from all taint and evil into which Germany has been dragged by the Nazis, then we shall have a third world war in another 20 years or so."

NEW YORK—Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Russia, warns those fearful of a red victory: "Our government is going all-out in its aid to Russia—we must do the same individually."

As a matter of fact she had knocked a girl off her bicycle. Her lawyer argued that the woman was not guilty of hit and run driving because she did not know the girl was hurt. But the California Appellate Court convicted the woman of hit and run driving, stating:

"The vehicles were traveling in the same direction, the car overtook the bicycle, struck the rear end of it, and passed to its left."

"Knowledge that a rider on a bicycle, which has been struck by an automobile, has been thrown to the ground is sufficient evidence of injury to the rider to call into operation the provisions of the statute."

Once a driver knows he has struck a person, he should stop and make sure that his victim is unharmed. Merely assuming that the victim is all right is no defense to a charge of hit and run driving.

TRAGEDY OCCURS NEAR MERCER ON FRIDAY NIGHT

trailer truck, driven by Walter Anderson, aged 27 years, of 461 Pine street, Meadville, approached the intersection traveling north.

Couldn't Avert Crash
According to Anderson, he thought that Davis was stopping but when he saw the car come out onto the highway, and the collision appeared imminent, he blew his horn but signalled with his spotlight, however, and he swerved the truck to the left to avoid a collision. His efforts were unavailing, he said, and the Davis car was struck from the side, being rolled down the highway and finally was crushed under the wheels of the ponderous truck. The truck tore through shrubbery in the yard of Glenn Hovis, and then struck a small embankment. The truck came to a stop on top of the culvert, threatening to topple over onto the driver. Anderson escaped with but minor bruises and lacerations.

Four Killed Instantly
Mr. Davis, and his son, Hugh Frederick, were dead when removed from the wreckage of the Davis car, which had been literally ground to pieces under the truck wheels, as were Mrs. Bartlett and her little daughter. The other two Davis children died a short time later in the Mercer Cottage hospital.

The condition of Mrs. Linton and Mrs. Davis was said to be critical today, but that they spent a fairly good night, hospital authorities stated.

According to the information given by Wyatt, Mr. Davis and family, and Mrs. Bartlett and little daughter, had been in Cochran, Pa., where they went to get Mrs. Linton, who had been visiting there, and were enroute to their homes when the crash occurred. Children's toys and wreckage of both cars littered the scene of the collision.

Funeral Arrangements
Funeral arrangements for the members of the Davis family have not been completed, pending the arrival of Mr. Davis' step-brother, Gerald Houston, who is with the United States Army at Camp Wallace, Texas. He will leave Camp Wallace tonight. The bodies have been removed to the A. Darrell Burke funeral home, 319 North Jefferson street.

Surviving, in addition to his wife, are his stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Houston; two brothers, Clark Davis, this city, Gerald Houston, Camp Wallace, Texas, and one sister, Miss Margaret Davis, this city.

The bodies of Mrs. Bartlett and her daughter, Bernice, were removed to the Sharp funeral home in New Wilmington. Funeral arrangements for them have not been completed.

Mrs. Bartlett was born in New Castle on June 2, 1910, a daughter of Harry B. and Anna Jewell Linton. She had been employed as a clerk at the A. and P. store in New Wilmington, and was a member of the New Wilmington Gospel Tabernacle. Bernice was born September 16, 1936.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Barrage balloons are an important factor in the air defense of the nation, particularly along the coast. They are silent sentries of the air and no enemy pilot will drive his ship into an area where these monsters float.

Each Barrage Balloon costs about $10,000, but purchases of War Bonds every pay day will buy the thousands of balloons we need for our protection. It will take a dime out of every dollar you earn to help supply these for the nation's safety. Do your part.

Buy U. S. War Bonds every pay day and help meet your county's War Bond quota.

The New Castle Marine office is leading, at the present time, all the recruiting stations in the western Pennsylvania district.

Scouts To Help Garden Campaign

Lawrence county Boy Scouts are going to work in the Victory Garden campaign this summer. Chairman R. F. Davis announced today.

"It is the intention of the Lawrence county B. S. A. committee to do its best in connection with the national campaign for food for victory," Mr. Davis told Dick Rentz, chairman of the New Castle Victory Garden campaign.

The scouts gardens may be either troop, patrol or individual projects, but they must be scientific, well-planned gardens that will further the desire of the government to increase the vitamin content of individual diets by the produce of better gardens.

The Lawrence county B. S. A. committee is also giving special recognition to scouts who hire out to farmers needing extra help on their farms this summer. To them, as well as to those whose Victory gardens live up to the high standards set by the government, merit badges will be awarded.

His mind has stopped growing when he says it can't be done that way because it isn't customary.

City Baseball Loop Lid Lifters Sunday

Patriotic Ceremonies To Highlight Openers; Starting Time 3 O'Clock

FOUR ENCOUNTERS ON DAY'S PROGRAM

Patriotic ceremonies, unpretentious but satiated with sincerity that emerges from the bottom of the human heart, will feature the opening of the eighth City Baseball League season on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Following the brief rituals, physically fit athletes flaunting the colors of eight teams will pick up their bats and gloves and start to battle for the coveted first half championship.

President Mike Donovan today announced that the opening day schedule pairs:

Slovaks at Bessemer, Bessemer high field.

Moose club at Lawrence Indies, Cedar street grounds.

West Pittsburgh at Elders, Marshall field, Scott street.

Croton A. C. at West Side Tigers, Lee avenue field.

If the weatherman unfolds his Sunday smile, several thousand fans are expected to gather for the lid lifters. President Donovan predicted.

The Elders and West Side Tigers have planned ceremonies filled with pomp. On Marshall field, four players will march to the flag pole to raise Old Glory. While the flag is being raised the National Anthem will be played.

On Lee avenue field, Staff Sergeant John L. Dean, United States Marine recruiter here, will be in charge of the program. Managers Len Gilbert and Paul Morrison, of the West Side club, have made arrangements to secure music for the occasion. The crowd will participate in the "Pledge of Allegiance" to the flag.

Other aggregations have planned to conduct brief series well-spiced with a patriotic background.

As is the usual custom, the first ball will be tossed out by leading citizens of the city.

Side Tiger officials announced that "Scotty" Morrison or Chialfallo will twirl. Andy Sargent or Frank Stone will be on the slab for the Crotonites.

A play by play account will be given through a public address system installed at the field recently. This is being provided for the benefit of the gallery.

In view of the fact that many members of the loop are now in khaki, quite a few younger players have broken into the lineups. Despite this, fans can expect thrills—studded contests from now until the two half winners start their championship series.

The loop will function three times a week, Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday. On week nights, games will start promptly at 8 o'clock. On Sunday, battles will get underway at 3.

Leo Hill, of the Lawrence County Umpires association, today assigned the following officials for tomorrow's openers:

West Pittsburgh at Elders, Price and Morgan.

Slovaks at Bessemer, Irwin and Gormel.

Moose at Lawrence Indies, General and Richards.

Croton at W. S. Tigers, McIntyre and Rotunno.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Saturday sports scramble pounded out on the run:

It takes all kinds of men to make an army. There are some who have to be dragged into it. Others are patriots, men who have a burning desire to get into the fray and help the Allies kick the tar out of the stinking Axis. There's one local young man who belongs in the last named rank—Norman Nocera, the ex-New Castle high football star....

When the war broke out, Norm's brother, Fibert, also a New Castle high ace, was among the first to toss aside his books and a spectacular athletic career at Slippery Rock and step into Uncle Sam's army. Not too many months later, Frank Nocera, Shenango township high's athletic boss, enrolled in the Navy....

Because two members of his family were already in service, the draft board placed Norman in Class III-A, to support his sisters (Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nocera died several years ago). Instead of taking the easy side, Norm slipped off to Pittsburgh last week and joined the Navy. Today, he's in Newport, R. I., a yeoman second class. "My country needs me to win an important battle," the ex-Fann Estate and Grove City student said before leaving....

Would be saboteurs had better think twice before endeavoring any of their sneak punches. A report from Parris Island states that 11 New Castle Marine reserves, in drainin' gat the South Carolina base for guard duty, are displaying remarkable ability with at the institution's range....

Walter Tewell, Mickey Salamen, the ex-fighter, Fred Berner, Jack Flansburg, Jack DiCarlo, Ted Castelle and Lew Cartwright emerged as experts in Moday's drills. Elmer Minizer and Dominick Russo finished in the sharpshooters' league while Fred Maciarello and V. A. Audino grabbed themselves marksmanship ranks....

Chalky Wright, who smashed Lulu Constantino's 56-winning fight streak, once served as Mae West's chauffeur.... The plight of Joe Medwick seems to be one of the bigger problems discussed when baseball men gather. Not too long ago, Joe was mentioned in the same breath with Joe DiMaggio. Today, the pair is as different as Hitler and Little Orphan Annie....

Who cares dept: The University of Wisconsin announces that it will employ the "T" formation next season. Considering the success the Badgers have been having, they should try something.... "Diz" Dean, now a baseball announcer, and a poor one from what I hear, has developed a double chin. So what....

Dodgers Clip Twilight Number, 7-6; Buccos Jar Cuts By 6-4 Count

PHILLY ATHLETICS JAR RED SOX NINE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 9.—Baseball today is credited with having gone all out for the war effort.

Everybody paid his way into the ballpark, including umpires, newspapermen, players, Mayor LaGuardia of New York, and the park attendants yesterday when the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants battled up for a contribution of $59,859.

The game was the first of several slated for the service funds and the first twilight game ever staged in the majors, with notables from all walks of life in attendance.

The Dodgers won 7 to 6, and the outcome left the Dodgers in first place by 1 1/2 games over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs 6 to 4 today in second place with little difficulty and in the other game of the day in the National League the third place St. Louis Cardinals downed the Cincinnati Reds 5 to 2, behind the eight-hit pitching of Lon Warneke.

In the American League, the Boston Red Sox lost ground by dropping a game to the Philadelphia Athletics, 2 to 1.

Phil Marchildon hurled the victory, his fourth of the year against two defeats as Charley Wagner suffered his first defeat of the season.

That was the only game in the American League, with today's schedule calling for Washington at New York, Boston at Philadelphia, Cleveland at Detroit and Chicago at St. Louis.

In the National, New York played at Brooklyn again, St. Louis at Cincinnati, Pittsburgh at Chicago and Philadelphia at Boston.

NEW YORK.—New York Yankees used 14 pinch-hitters in 13 games, six of them for First Baseman Ed Levy, and only four came through.

HAS THE EXPERIENCE
Twenty-one title defenses, twenty-one radio appearances: Joe Louis is getting experience for something he can turn to after his fighting days are ended.

Legion Junior League To Open

Final Plans For Opening Next Week Completed At Meeting Friday Evening

Plans were completed at a meeting held in the Legion home Friday evening for the opening game of the American Legion Junior League, which is being sponsored by the Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion, when eight teams under the ages of 17 years, will vie for city honors.

James Vessella, who is head of the league, explained the various rules to the teams and their sponsors and gave out the contracts for the players.

The opening game will be played at Dean Park playground Friday evening, May 15, when quite a celebration will be staged. There will be a flag raising, Commander Clarence S. Jarrett of the Gaston Post will toss out the first ball, and a short talk will be given by George Moore, explaining the purpose of the league. The American Legion Band will be present and will play during the game.

The opening clash will be between the Mooney's and the Dean Park Dodgers.

Judging from a story in the Butte Eagle there is a possibility that Al Orlando may play with the Yankees, despite the assertion of President Jack Dunleavy that Al lacked hitting power. The story said that Manager Dallas Warren planned to use Orlando at shortstop. This may be due to the suspension of Wisnolski, an infielder who showed briefly Monday night at short and the release of Bob Scheibel. This leaves the team with 18 players. Local fans hope Al can stick with the team. It might be that his lack of hitting was due to some cause that Manager Warren believes Al can overcome. The Penn State association would have liked to use Frankie Ross as an umpire. However, owing to steady employment Ross told us yesterday he could not accept the berth. Frankie formerly umpired for Elmer Daily, league president.

Private Bill Howley has been sent from Camp Meade to the Air Force at Kessler field, Biloxi, Miss., according to a postal we got yesterday. After basic training it will be determined what training school he is to be sent to.

Hills, W. Side Cop City-County Tiffs

South Hills Mauls Rockets, 5-2; West Siders Trip St. Margaret's, 7-2

With Schass pitching and hitting sensationally, the West Side A. C. hammered out a 7-2 victory over St. Margaret's on E. & A. field while the strong South Hills aggregation spanked the Rockets, 5-2, on South Hills field.

Schass, who struck out eight batters, contributed a juicy double. Zarilla cracked out a triple for the losers.

Busy Schedule For N. Y. A. Nine

There isn't a busier ball club in town than the N. Y. A. aggregation. Coach John Rubens today announced that his club will play three games within the next few days.

This afternoon, the N. Y. A. takes on Princeton at Princeton. On Tuesday evening at 6:15 o'clock, the Hickory Heights club invades the N. Y. A. diamond in what should be a fast clash. On Wednesday evening on Cedar street grounds, the N. Y. A. slammers battle the Lawrence Indies of the City Baseball league.

The N. Y. A. team boasts of a strong hitting array, spearheaded by Mikula and Gayda, of Ford City, Hadel, of Kittanning, Strong of Homer City, and Verrio of Ambridge.

PICKS FUNGOES
Chasing fungoes is the best training for pitchers, in the opinion of Bill McKechnie, Red manager.

FAIR OR FOUL By LAWTON CARVER INS Sports Editor

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 9.—Billy Conn is quoted as saying that his return bout with Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship is virtually all set for June 24 at Yankee Stadium. The challenger even has picked his training camp.

I'm the last guy in the world to butt in on somebody else's business and suggest that he doesn't know what he is talking about when he tells you that he is promised work at such and such a place at a given time, and I'm sure Conn ought to know more about his own business than I do.

However, before he begins shadow boxing and practicing the leers he will use against Louis in this return bout, I would like to say that he may be wrong. Perhaps he hasn't got a fight. What's more it is barely possible that neither he nor Louis will have another fight before they get out of the Army unless they get it against the Japs or Germans.

From what may be termed a reliable source I am led to believe upon checking up on Conn's certainty that he is about to meet Louis again that the war department is on the verge of deciding that inasmuch as we are in a war it ill behooves any of us to be running off on furloughs to box somebody or compete in some other event even though it contribute to the Army or Navy charity funds.

War More Important
The war department in other words, is deciding that Pvt. Louis and Pvt. Conn and other privates of the United States Army should be practicing warfare in times like these and they may never again be permitted to get away for two or three weeks to train for what amounts to a private enterprise.

The Louis-Conn return match was to be a promotion in which some service relief fund would share but not to the extent of taking all the proceeds as was the case in Louis' other recent fights.

This isn't to say that the Louis-Conn encounter is off, for the war department isn't telling right now, but it is just about as near off as it is on, according to a gentleman who positively should know, inasmuch as he would have something to do with the promotion.

According to the word that is getting around Jacobs' Beach, the war department is rapidly arriving at the conclusion that the athletes in the armed forces can do more to help win the war by helping to fight the war than by fighting each other in boxing matches or by competing in track meets and other such odds and ends.

The war department presumably won't frown on these endeavors as part of the army routine, but only when sports events detract from the strict business of winning a war.

Conn may have jumped the gun in revealing to intimates that he is all set to begin preparations for a June date with Louis, or he may know exactly what he is talking about. I wouldn't know for sure, but if I were a book-maker I'd wager that he and Louis won't meet in June.

No, I don't know a thing except that your Uncle Sam is getting very, very tough and touchy. Your uncle with the whiskers has been fooling around a little while getting ready and now he is about ready to go out there slugging and win himself a war, and he figures he needs all the guys he can get and he's not training Louis and Conn for an encounter with each other.

He's training them for a slightly more important fight than that, and let us see whether they meet or not.

Four Teams Tie In Golf League

Sylvan Heights Leaguers Pry Off Lid With Spirited Matches Friday Eve

Sylvan Heights Golf leaguers pried off the lid of the 1942 season last evening at Sylvan Heights course with four spirited matches, and some mid-season golf was shot. Two matches were unplayed, the Ellwood City Moose and Shelby Social club teams being unable to play because of working conditions at their places of employment, but will play off their games next Tuesday.

At the close of play, it was found that the four winning teams had scored the same number of points, all winning 4 to 2.

Saegertown got off to a snappy start by defeating last year's champion New Castle Moose; while Shenango Pottery defeated United versus A. A. Duce, D'Abuzzi defeated Universal, Hi-Fired, and Unions defeated Fredians, all by this same score.

Ted Lach, local public links phenom, started the season with a par round of 36, with Ang Cimlin, Timmy Lombardo and George Sargent clicking in with 38s, and Joe Mazzari, Jackie Snyder and E. C. Jarrett had 39s.

After the golf matches, representatives of the league discussed informally the proposal to have the West Penn Public Links open tournament here again this summer, and will have another meeting on next Wednesday evening, following the golf matches, when a chairman will be elected, and plans will be laid for the tourney.

The Crotonians collected only a trio of swats. Croton grabbed a pair of runs in the third and what turned out to be the winning marker in the fifth. The Elders rallied in the sixth, crossing the home cushion twice. Stone whiffed 10 batters; Witherow, nine.

Preakness Race Goes Off Today

Shut Out, Derby Winner, And Devil Diver, Hot Shots; Many Like Alsab

By JACK MAHON
(International News Service Staff Writer)
BALTIMORE, May 9.—Can Shut Out, the last son of the old "Chocolate Soldier," Equipoise, blank them all again? (The race starts at 4:45 New Castle time).

That was the question that buzzed around the old hilltop at Pimlico as ten smart thoroughbreds pranced in their stalls and waited the bugler's call which will send them to the post today in the 52nd annual running of the Preakness stakes of a mile and three sixteenths.

Though the favorite Greentree entry of Shut Out, which won last week's Kentucky Derby, and his highly regarded stable-mate, Devil Diver, will probably go to the post at even money, or less, there were plenty of roots for almost every starter in the race.

Diver Has Post
The order in which the ten top three-year-olds will go to the post for the $73,310 purse, richest since Victorian won in 1928, will be—barring last minute changes—Devil Diver, Apache, Fair Call, Requested, Domingo, Shut Out, Valdina Orphan, Alsab, Sun Again and Colchis. If all ten go any winner, with the exception of Fair Call, Requested, Valdina Orphan or Colchis, will net a purse of $58,175. A winner from this quartet of supplementary entries can only cart home a paltry $56,810.

If you must have a sentimental favorite, take Alsab, once more. That's what Maryland is doing and the wise guys say the little fellow will to the post a 3-1 second choice. Colchis, which beat him twice in five days here earlier in the year is also sure to get a heavy play and if Sun Again goes you can bet the backers of trainer Ben Jones, who watched Whitlaw score a spectacular victory in Wednesday's Dixie Handicap will send in their support. Incidentally, trainer Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons has decided to run Apache in Blinkers today. The Woodward race worked a swell mile in 1:39 2-5 seconds with the equipment on Wednesday and Fitz is going to let him run with him this afternoon and see what happens.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

Tomorrow is Mother's Day and we offer this little poem as written by A. T. Kissinger.

A dear little lady so tidy and neat, She gave us the very blood in our veins.

I never heard her complain; She lives in a little house down the street.

She smiles whether sunshine or rain.

I am sure you know this friend of mine.

The most faithful one thru the years;

The American Mother, that creature divine.

Who share all our sorrows and tears.

Remember the boys at Pearl Harbor

At Bataan and Corregidor, too.

And fight just a little bit harder.

Their Mother lives next door to you.

Most every Saturday and some times during the week requests come in for dogs and to give dogs away. . . . Today we have a little part hound dog, about 6 months old, very playful with children. It's white and if you would like to have it just call 3027-R.

It won't be long until we citizens will be going to the polls . . . and when we think of politicians we are reminded of the ones who don't pay their bills, and we wonder why they think they should be entrusted with the people's money and business affairs when they can't handle their own. We have a few right here in New Castle who are in that shape and it won't be long until they will be asking for another office. . . . Then is when we are going to break down and publish their names and the amount they owe various people in town. We have a list on hand, but it's locked away, for now is not the time to mention names.

Tomorrow is Sunday . . . Mothers' Day . . . and it should be a day of rest. For a lot tomorrow will mean the last Sunday ride for the duration . . . some will make a call on friends that they probably won't see for some time . . . and some will go to church . . . some who haven't been there for a long time.

U.S.O. Service Is Praised By Soldiers

From buck private, able seaman and major general, in all quarters of the United States, letters endorsing USO are piling up by the hundreds at National Headquarters in New York City.

Culled recently from the files of Ray Johns, Director of USO's Field Service, the following excerpts are representative:

"We in the Army are like other normal people... we also miss our loved ones... To walk through your front door and be welcomed as into a friend's home gives one a feeling of warmth in a cold world."

"(Signed) Pvt. James G. Haupt, Camp Wheeler, Ga."

"The USO club... here... is doing a splendid job of providing recreation for the enlisted men... We are very grateful to you for providing us this building and such a competent staff."

"(Signed) Corp. Johnson H. Royce, Jr., Fort Croft, S. C."

"This USO Club here is really something to talk about. It's beautiful... I would like for you to send these people (the local USO staff) a letter telling them you have heard how nice their service club is. Please!"

"(Signed) Pvt. Melvin W. Reeder, Army Air Base, Houlton, Maine."

Here, in more formal vein, is what some of the officers wrote:

"Your pleasant reception of the several trains of this command... is very much appreciated. Such expressions add a great deal to the comfort and morale of the Army. Your work in this respect is commendable."

"(Signed) Jack W. Heard, Major General, Camp Cooke, Calif."

"The USO Clubs in Little Rock and here in San Luis Obispo are all doing splendid work. The clubs here (Camp San Luis Obispo, Calif.) are among the best I have seen and are doing grand work for my men."

"(Signed) W. H. Simpson, Major

General, Camp San Luis Obispo, Calif."

"The public relations with our community in and around Battle Creek (Mich.) have changed considerably since USO began work here about three months ago. Community relations are very important to us... Our soldiers welcome the opening of the... USO Club, and we sincerely hope that their present staff will be able to carry on the increasing load which they are now discharging in an efficient manner."

"(Signed) Anderson F. Pitts, Colonel, Fort Custer, Mich."

"Supplementing these endorsements are the following soldier comments winnowed from USO club registers all over the nation:

"USO is real USA." "I come in just to walk over a rug again."

"I just love to sit in front of the fireplace and watch the flames. It takes me right back to the good old days when I used to live with my grandmother on the farm."

"A wonderful place to get away from the routine of army life."

"I chipped in a buck for the last USO campaign before I enlisted and, boy, oh boy, I've gotten it back a thousand times since I've been in the service."

Letters, too, from parents of service men, indicate that USO is helping the morale of the home by ministering to its absent sons.

"It's certainly a load off my mind," one mother wrote to Mr. Johns, the USO Field Service Director, "to know that someone else cares about my son's welfare. Thank you again from the bottom of my heart."

"As you no doubt found out, my boy is very conscious of religion."

"... a father wrote, 'and I know he appreciates his association with you.'"

In a letter to USO jointly written by a service man's father and mother they said: "We feel that our son has a place where he can feel at home and that means as much to us as it does to him."

Blood Relationship Affect Tuberculosis Resistance, Report

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Lengthy study of twins has revealed that blood relationship influences a person's resistance or susceptibility to tubercular infection, the National Tuberculosis Association was told Friday.

Drs. Franz J. Kallmann of the Psychiatric Institute and David Reiser of New York City's department of health, reported upon five years research with 308 pairs of twins at the association's 38th annual meeting in Philadelphia.

One of each pair of the twins was a victim of tuberculosis, the physicians explained, adding that the other member of the identical twin sets was more likely to develop tuberculosis than the other member of the non-identical twin sets—or any others of either family group.

Dr. Horace R. Getz and Theodore A. Koerner of Henry Phipps Institute, announced that an extreme deficiency in vitamins A and C has been found in tubercular patients. The disease, they said, seems to exhaust the body of a number of these necessary nutritive constituents.

Turner Withdraws From Race In State

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 9.—Former speaker of the house Ellwood J. Turner, of Chester, today withdrew as an active candidate for the Republican nomination as lieutenant governor.

His action left the race open to secretary of banking John C. Bell, Jr., of Philadelphia, who is running on the organization slate, and former revenue secretary William J. Hamilton, Jr., of Philadelphia, who is supported by Sen. James J. Davis anti-organization gubernatorial candidate.

Turner said he withdrew in the interests of party harmony. His name will remain on the May 19 primary ballot, however, as April 4 was the last day on which nominating petitions could be officially withdrawn.

Turner failed to file for reelection to the house, SNA where he is now completing 18 consecutive years.

Beasts And Beauties In Competition For Honors

Who wouldn't envy these pretty queens of the sawdust arena and the ponderous "Alice" who rules the 40 tons of Wallace Brothers pachyderms. They will be in New Castle on Monday, May 11.

All circus fans like elephants. In fact, nearly everyone is attracted to them. Their food order is one of the biggest items on the daily expense sheet of the big circus.

Circus men will tell you that as long as an elephant is well fed little or no trouble is experienced with them. But should they become real hungry their voracious appetite is appeased only by foraging for themselves and that means that the elephant is no respecter of persons in his quest for food.

The menagerie this season, greatly enlarged, will be open for inspection one hour before the circus starts.

Capit. Tommy McDonald directs the ponderous groups, assisted by a half dozen other experienced men. Many pretty girls who have followed the sawdust trail, have also been trained to work the beasts during the performances.

Although the elephants consume tons of peanuts daily, they also have a hay and brand mash diet to keep them in perfect physical condition.

Local Study Of Transportation Will Be Urged

P. U. C. Asks That Communities Study Problems Growing Out Of War

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 9.—The Public Utility Commission Friday announced it would ask communities throughout the state to establish local committees to study and coordinate transportation problems growing out of the war.

Following a conference in Washington Thursday with Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, the commission announced that an effort would be made to make Eastman's policies "speedily effective throughout Pennsylvania."

The first step will be to ask communities to appoint local committees composed of a representative of the mayor, the president of the local planning commission, a representative of the local bus company, a railroad official, and a representative of the local Chamber of Commerce.

The committees will be expected to study and analyze the local transportation picture, the effect of staggering hours of employment, changing shopping hours, etc., and if necessary the coordination of the local program with that of affected adjoining cities.

The committees will present detailed recommendations to the P. U. C., which would then make them subject to commission orders under the authority granted it by the public utility law. The commission would also use its available machinery to enforce such orders.

The nomination for congressman-at-large will be made by all the voters of the state. In New Castle and Lawrence county voters will cast their ballot for a congressional nominee for the 26th district and will also vote for congressman-at-large.

IF THERE IS NO ISSUE, MANUFACTURE ONE

It's an old time political trick. When you are opposed to a candidate about whom you can say nothing wrong, build up some fallacious issue, magnify some none-existent wrong and keep harping upon them.

That about sums up the opposition to Edward Martin for the Republican nomination for Governor of Pennsylvania. His opponents have searched his record diligently and find nothing but creditable performance.

But wait! They have found out he has been a soldier in his country's armed forces. Ergo, the charge of a "military dictator."

The charge that Edward Martin has been a soldier is true. He enlisted as a private in the Spanish-American War. He served in the Philippines. He served with Pershing on the Mexican border. He served in the World War and was badly wounded and thrice decorated for gallantry. He headed the 28th Division when it was called into service over a year ago. When this nation needed manpower Edward Martin never hesitated at any time in his life.

It's true, he has been a soldier—and a good one. Check back the history of the country and you will find a lot of civilians who became soldiers in the time of the national need, made mighty good governmental heads. Edward Martin will make a good governor.
